PROTOTYPE PITCHING

PROBLEM AND SOLUTION

We are living in a country, where we need to wait in queues to fulfill our needs. It is time consuming, and we cannot guarantee that we can get necessary product. All of us have many important works other than waiting in queue.

We took waiting in gas queue as our problem. You all know only a limited number of gas cylinders are available in the country and those cylinders also distributed to urban areas. People in the rural area have no clue about when they will receive gas cylinder. Our country is severely affected by economic crises and most of the time even government don't know when the next shipment will be.

To reduce these problems, we want to launch an app where you can get to know about available stock, prices of gas cylinders and you can make orders via online.

BACKGROUND & MOTIVATION

Our family members also waiting in queues for long time and return home with empty hand. Waiting in queue is time consuming, and we cannot guarantee that we can get necessary product. All of us have many important works other than waiting in queue. Nearly 15 deaths have been reported in fuel queues. These situations motivated us to create a software solution for this problem.
